

HANDS-ON HERITAGE

Hands-on Heritage Co., founded in 2015 in Pennsylvania, USA, collaborates with stakeholders to conserve cultural and environmental legacies. Organizations like the Broad Institute of MIT & Harvard, ProMedica Health System, CambridgeSeven and SSOE architects trust us for their museum project planning and content development needs. These clients depend on our superior researching, writing, interviewing, and digital storytelling services.

WHAT WE DO

We assist in project planning and exhibit content development for specialty museums, as well as historic, cultural, and sports-focused venues. Our professional and educational background is in history, biomedicine, science, conservation, anthropology, archaeology military, veteran topics, sports, art, religion, politics, and technology.

WHO WE ARE

Robin Van Auken, MA, RPA, is the CEO of Hands-on Heritage. She is an anthropologist and registered professional archaeologist (National 15069). She specializes in working with communities, galvanizing individuals to contribute their memories, photographs, and artifacts to develop legacy projects.
